PACE Communications
Interactive Designer

Sept 2014 - Present

Currently working as a contributing member of the interactive team at PACE Communications. Disciplines range from updating client websites, creating responsive and email client compatible eBlasts to helping maintain a variety of digital services such as PACE-Core, timeline, custom MVC templates within Wordpress and more. Projects can range from simple website updates and tweaks to more robust feature sets and website redesigns. My primary role is to facilitate the individual needs of each client with a focus on design and interaction. I am usually working through the ticketing system JIRA and coordinating with project managers on scope and timing under the direction of the client and project stakeholders.
